Company Overview:

At Envision IT Partners, we work in unison with business executives across a wide spectrum of industries to ensure that every aspect of their organizations' technology constantly drives success. We're not repairmen. We're not "that guy you got." We're highly trained engineers and experienced business operators who help our clients strategically establish, monitor and maintain their enterprise-grade technology systems. The cost of downtime for midsize companies can be devastating. Out-of-date systems and equipment, inconsistent implementations, and unevenly applied data and security policies all can result in significant business risk, impacting everything from operations and CSR to fulfillment, HR and accounting. This directly translates into lost productivity, lost revenue and a jump in costs related to damage control and impact on customer retention. These risks are exponentially increased in today's business climate, where SMB executives have to deal with ongoing external security threats, rapidly changing technology and the mobilization of today's workforce. Our unique approach of delivering enterprise-grade best practices in ways that are affordable and responsive to SMB executives has consistently proven to reduce downtime risks by as much as 85%.

What Makes Us Different:

- We are very honest and upfront with our clients and potential clients about what we are good at and what we do. We don't try to shoe horn ourselves into situations that are not a good fit for us or for our clients just to get a deal
- Each client has a senior engineer who is the lead for that client. The lead senior engineer will work with that client to get an in depth understanding of their infrastructure and how the client works as a company. This insures there is always an in-house expert to escalate issues to if the situation dictates.
- We do not implement technology for technology's sake. We work with our clients to develop a roadmap that takes into account their current needs, future growth plans and budget to insure their technology spending is enabling them to reach their goals.
